

ADVANCED INTERNET SEARCH FOR INVESTIGATORS (AIFI) WORKSHOP

THE NO SHOW POLICY IS IN EFFECT FOR THIS COURSE!

August 5, 2008
(8 P.O.S.T. Credit Hours)

This intensive one-day workshop uses hands-on practice to build on advanced search concepts presented in the IFI seminar. Using a computer lab, the students will learn how to obtain larger amounts of relevant information faster.

Topics covered will include:

- ✓ Types of search engines, indexes and search syntax
- ✓ Public records search using free sources
- ✓ Newsgroup message content. Structure and message and author search techniques
- ✓ Differences among various telephone and address directories
- ✓ Email address holder identification techniques
- ✓ Setup of free customized information gathering and national news clipping page to automatically scan local news sources
- ✓ Auction item searching and seller identification
- ✓ Sources for free specialized software for internet searching and other efficient internet functions

This seminar will be presented by David Vine. David has worked with law enforcement since 1977 and has presented more training to governmental clients throughout the U.S. David has published widely on the use of the internet and has been active in such organizations as the American Society for Industrial Security, Certified Fraud Examiners and the International Association of Law Enforcement Intelligence Analysts.
